

A wedding within reach

Choose, allocate and track your budget

AI illustration - fictional scene

PRACTICAL GUIDE + WORKSHEETS

ENGLISH / EDITION 1.2

Less uncertainty. More clarity.

This short guide offers an organizing method, illustrative examples and a printable worksheet. Read it together, make one decision at a time and adapt the tools to your circumstances. Figures and times are hypothetical. No supplier outcome, saving or perfect event is guaranteed. It does not replace legal or financial advice or venue instructions. Original content prepared with AI assistance and editorially checked; no personal professional experience or testimonials are claimed.

- 01 Start with a real limit
- 02 Build three versions
- 03 Understand guest-related costs
- 04 Compare the same scope
- 05 Track commitments and cash separately
- 06 Make trade-offs deliberately
- 07 Close the loop

PRACTICAL WORKSHOPS

Your budget meeting

Two quotes, one need

A message that clarifies

If the amount increases

Start with a real limit

Before comparing venues, write down what you can actually afford to spend on the celebration. Separate money already available from contributions that have only been discussed. A family promise is not confirmed funding until the amount and timing are clear. Agree on three priorities: the experience you want, the extras you care less about and the expenses you will avoid. A useful budget expresses those choices rather than recreating a wedding seen on social media.

YOUR NEXT STEP

Record a spending ceiling, funding dates and three shared priorities.

ILLUSTRATIVE EXAMPLE

You have €8,000 available and a possible €2,000 contribution. Build the first plan around €8,000 and create a separate version for confirmed additional funding.

VISUAL CHECKPOINT

