THE GUIDE

Let curiosity lead

An old photograph, a contemporary artwork and something once worn tell different stories. This guide helps you choose what to encounter and make sense of a visit. It does not rank places from best to worst.

Nine possibilities span archives, contemporary creation, collecting, transmission and music. Connections and exercises are original editorial suggestions. Choose one main visit; a second remains optional.

You will find area-based guidance, three ways to compose an outing, a budget example and printable worksheets. Practical information is dated 1 November 2026; exhibitions and conditions can change. No ticket, booking or guiding service is included.

THE GUIDE

Maison de la Photographie: read the archive

The Maison holds photographs, glass plates, postcards and documents about Morocco. In the medina, it offers a way to examine how a place and its people have been represented. [S1]

Choose one image: what does it show, what stays outside the frame and whose viewpoint shapes it? Age alone does not make a representation neutral.

THE GUIDE

MAP: stories carried by adornment

In the Kasbah, Monde des Arts de la Parure brings together jewellery, garments, textiles and other objects from many regions of the world. Material, use and transmission offer a different angle from a museum focused on one territory. [S8]

Choose a piece for its making, then read what its label explains about context. Similar motifs do not prove a shared origin.
